FEEDING CHEAP WHEAT

Conditions Under Which Wheat May Be Fed with Profit

Numerous letters received by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station indicate that, on account of the relatively low market price of wheat, many farmers are planning to feed wheat to livestock. Corn and wheat are very similar in chemical composition, and numerous feeding trials have shown that they have about the same feeding value per pound. There is greater need for grinding wheat than is the case with corn, for the small hard grains of wheat are likely to escape mastication and digestion if fed whole, and it is advisable to grind for all kinds of livestock except sheep and poultry. On account of the pasty character of wet ground wheat it is frequently worth while to mix a coarser or more granular feed with the ground wheat. Feeding whole wheat alone to horses in any large amount is, in addition to wasting a part of the grain, likely to cause digestive troubles; and wheat, ground or whole, is probably less satisfactory for horses than for other stock. The need for such feeds as tankage, linseed oilmeal, skim milk or green feeds in pork production is not greatly diminished, if at all, by using wheat in place of corn. Rye has a slightly lower palatability, particularly for poultry, than has either corn or wheat. Rye has the same need for grinding as has wheat. When ground wheat or ground rye may be had at a price as low as that of shelled corn, they may well be used in animal feeding; otherwise their use is likely to result in loss instead of profit.

WARMER

First Of The Week, Cooler The Last Half

Washington, July 27.—Warm and generally fair weather over the whole country was forecast today by the weather bureau for the first half of the present week.

"The next disturbance of importance to cross the country," said the bureau, "will appear in the far west Monday or Tuesday and move eastward, crossing the great central valleys Wednesday or Thursday and the eastern states near the end of the week. This disturbance will be attended by local showers and thunderstorms and be followed by a change to cooler weather in the northern and central states. There are no indications at this time of a disturbance in the West Indies."

OHIO

Will Be Officially Represented On Big Auto Tour

The state of Ohio, officially, will participate in the Ohio State Journal's two-day Booster Tour, July 29 to 30, which comes through here on Thursday afternoon.

Ohio will be represented by James H. Marker, state highway commissioner. Mr. Marker goes as the representative of Governor Cox. The governor made every effort to cancel several speaking engagements to go in person, but was unable to do so.

The White Automobile Company of Cleveland has placed a new 1915 model, seven-passenger car, at the disposal of the highway commissioner. H. D. Brasher, who represents that company in Columbus, will drive the car. Others who will ride in that machine will be Harry J. Wester, man, the well-known cartoonist of the Ohio State Journal, and himself an ardent motorist, and George W. Gillette, secretary of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

A great deal of what the roads of Ohio are at present moment is due to the state highway commission and the Ohio Federation of Good Roads. Mr. Marker has been active in the official life of both organizations. With the matter of a levy for state road work, an issue in the coming campaign, the subject is one of interest alike to official and private citizens. Traveling with a lot of automobile men, Mr. Marker will be able to get knowledge and opinions that he could not secure otherwise. The State Journal's tour traverses 13 counties, visits 12 county seats and covers 325 miles of diversified road-work. When the entry list closed Saturday evening there were 47 cars booked to start. This will bring more than 200 persons to this city.

The meeting is the first that the congress has held in Europe. The feature of the opening session was the presidential address of Dr. John B. Murphy of Chicago. Dr. Murphy spoke on "Arthrodesis and Bone Transplantation, Its Limitations and Technique."

During the sessions of the congress which will continue through the week, the clinics by eminent British surgeons will be observed by the visitors from the United States, Canada and the European countries. Sir William Arbuthnot Lane of London, Sir Beckley George Andrew Moynihan of Leeds, and Harry J. Stiles of Edinburgh will be among the famous British surgeons who will hold special clinics.
